(LM-43) Why an MA in Digital Humanities?

The Department of Foreign Languages, Literatures and Cultures is a Department of Excellence in Translation and Digital Humanities (MA's programme in DH)

The PNRR provides for the implementation of teaching and research projects under the pillars of Horizon 2021-2027, developed for Mission4 (universities) in the areas dedicated to technological innovation

We live in a digital age where it is crucial to develop an interaction between the traditions of high quality academic studies focusing on linguistic, literary, historical, philological and cultural heritage and the demands of today's information society

DHs are the Back to the Future of scientific research: by generating new applications and new models for traditional knowledge, DHs enable revolutionary and transdisciplinary scientific research that combines the knowledge of humanities scholars with the scientific and technological knowledge of information technology. Furthermore, DHs provide for the development of critical thinking in the digital age

DH at UniBg

Among the various foci of the Digital Humanities degree programmes (literary, linguistic, cultural-archaeological, historical, psychological, geographical-anthropological, socio-legal, etc.), we preferred the linguistic-literary focus with its implications for methodology and textual analysis with digital capabilities on the one hand, and for cultural theory and criticism on the other.

Our proposal not only followed the principle of differentiation from the rest of the national educational offer, but was also oriented towards the trends of the international community (universities, associations, international congresses)

Enhancing skills

- ✓ The degree programme in Text Sciences and Cultural Enhancement in the Digital Age combines the linguistic, literary, cultural, philological, historical and anthropological disciplines inherent to the Department of Foreign Languages, Literatures and Cultures with the new realities of the information and knowledge society (AI, IT, statistics, etc).
- ✓ The programme develops diverse skills in the international labour market and responds to the urgent demand for graduate specialists in intercultural disciplines with a technical specialisation that only a degree in Digital Humanities can offer.
- ✓ With the degree in Text Sciences and Cultural Enhancement in the Digital Age, students can acquire transversal skills and develop specific knowledge to operate in a working world increasingly influenced by digitalisation and the transmedial dimension
